(2) In a personal directive the maker may

(a) identify persons with whom the delegate is to consult in making a personal-care decision;

(b) identify any persons who are to be notified and any persons who are not to be notified of the coming into effect of the personal directive;

(c) identify any nearest relatives or other relatives who are not to act under Section 14.

(3) An instruction in a personal directive that is prohibited by law is void.

6 Unless a personal directive expressly provides otherwise, where, after making a personal directive in which the maker's spouse is appointed as delegate, the spouse is no longer a spouse, the appointment of the spouse as delegate is revoked.

7 A delegate may not delegate decision-making authority under a personal directive to another person unless the personal directive authorizes such delegation.

8 A delegate is not entitled to receive any remuneration for exercising any authority under a personal directive unless the personal directive so provides.

9 A personal directive is in effect whenever the maker lacks capacity to make a personal-care decision.

10 (1) A personal directive may name a person, by name, title or position, with whom the person making an assessment of the capacity of the maker is to consult in making the assessment.

(2) A delegate, statutory decision-maker, nearest relative, health care provider, person in charge of a home-care services provider or person in charge of a continuing-care home in which a maker or person represented resides may request an assessment of capacity of a maker or person represented.

(3) A maker or person represented may request a reassessment of capacity.

(5) A person who has custody or control of any information or document referred to in subsection (4) shall, at the request of the person assessing capacity, disclose that information.

11 (1) Where a person has made a personal directive and there is a reasonable basis to believe that the maker lacks capacity to make the decision to leave the Province, a police officer may use force that is necessary and reasonable in the circumstances to prevent the maker from leaving the Province until an assessment of capacity can be completed.

(2) An assessment under subsection (1) must be completed as soon as is practicable.

(3) No action lies against a delegate, a police officer or any other person assisting the delegate or the police officer arising from the use of force that is authorized by this Act.

12 (1) A personal directive has no effect

(a) in respect of a personal-care decision, whenever the maker has capacity;

(b) on the maker's death;

(c) when the personal directive is revoked by a maker who has capacity and makes the revocation in writing, executed in the same way as the personal directive; or

(d) on a determination by the court that the personal directive ceases to have effect.

(2) Notwithstanding clause (1)(c), a maker with capacity may revoke a personal directive by destroying the originals of the personal directive with the intention of revoking the personal directive.

13 A delegate's authority under a personal directive ceases

(a) when the delegate resigns, dies or lacks capacity to make personal-care decisions on behalf of the maker;

(b) when the maker revokes the delegate's authority pursuant to clause 12(1)(c) or subsection 12(2); or

(c) on a determination by the court that the delegate's authority ceases.

14 (1) Subject to the Hospitals Act, the Involuntary Psychiatric Treatment Act, clause 5(2)(c) and subsection 22(2), where a person who lacks capacity to make decisions regarding health care or a decision to accept an offer of placement in a continuing-care home or regarding home-care services has not made a personal directive authorizing a delegate or setting out instructions or wishes regarding

(d) the nearest relative who has capacity and is willing to make the decision; or

(e) where there is no nearest relative who has capacity and is willing to make the decision, the Public Trustee.

15 (1) Subject to the Hospitals Act and the Involuntary Psychiatric Treatment Act, all decisions made by a delegate must be made in accordance with subsection (2).

(2) In making any decision, a delegate shall

(a) follow any instructions in a personal directive unless

(i) there were expressions of a contrary wish made subsequently by the maker who had capacity,

(ii) technological changes or medical advances make the instruction inappropriate in a way that is contrary to the intentions of the maker, or

(iii) circumstances exist that would have caused the maker to set out different instructions had the circumstances been known based on what the delegate knows of the values and beliefs of the maker and from any other written or oral instructions;

(b) in the absence of instructions, act according to what the delegate believes the wishes of the maker would be based on what the delegate knows of the values and beliefs of the maker and from any other written or oral instructions; and

(c) where the delegate does not know the wishes, values and beliefs of the maker, make the personal-care decision that the delegate believes would be in the best interests of the maker.

(4) A statutory decision-maker shall

(a) act according to what the statutory decision-maker believes the wishes of the person represented would be based on what the statutory decision-maker knows of the values and beliefs of the person represented and from any other written or oral instructions; and

(b) where the statutory decision-maker does not know the wishes, values and beliefs of the person represented, make the personal-care decision that the statutory decision-maker believes would be in the best interests of the person represented.

16 A delegate or statutory decision-maker has no authority to make decisions relating to health care prescribed in the regulations unless the personal directive contains instructions or expressions of wishes that enable the delegate or statutory decision-maker to do so.

17 A delegate or statutory decision-maker has the right to access and to be provided with the information and records, including information and records subject to privilege, pertaining to the maker or person represented that are relevant to a decision to be made.

18 (1) Before seeking a decision of a statutory decision-maker in relation to a health care decision for a person, a health-care provider must inquire whether the person has made a personal directive.

(2) Where a health-care provider is aware that a personal directive exists for a maker, the health-care provider shall request a copy of a personal directive and, upon receipt, include it in the maker's health record.

(3) A health-care provider shall follow

(a) any instructions by a delegate acting in accordance with this Act;

(b) where there is no delegate, the instructions or an expression of the maker's wishes contained in a personal directive; or

(c) where there is no applicable personal directive, any instructions by a statutory decision-maker acting in accordance with this Act.

(b) the delay involved in obtaining consent from the delegate or statutory decision-maker may pose a significant risk to the maker or person represented; and

(c) there is no information available that makes it clear that the maker or person represented would not want the required treatment.

(b) a delegate, statutory decision-maker, nearest relative, health-care provider, person in charge of a home-care services provider or person in charge of a continuing-care home who acted in

(d) a delegate or statutory decision-maker for anything done or omitted to be done in good faith while carrying out authority in accordance with this Act.

21 Nothing in this Act grants greater rights, access to services or privileges to a maker or person represented or delegate or statutory decision-maker acting on behalf of a maker or person represented than would apply to the maker or person represented if the maker or person represented had capacity.

22 (1) This Act applies only to a personal directive made on or after the date this Act comes into force.

(2) Nothing in this Act invalidates an authorization made under the Medical Consent Act before the coming into force of this Act.

23 Nothing in this Act precludes combining a personal directive with an enduring power of attorney made under the Powers of Attorney Act in a single instrument provided that the instrument conforms to the form and execution requirements of this Act.

24 An instrument authorizing a person to make personal-care decisions on behalf of another or setting out instructions, values, beliefs or wishes regarding personal care made outside of the Province has the same effect as a personal directive made under this Act if it was made in the form required

(a) in this Act; or

(b) in the legislation of

(i) the jurisdiction where the instrument was made, or

(ii) the jurisdiction where the person who made the instrument was habitually resident at the time the instrument was made.

27 Any person who requires another person to make a personal directive as a condition for obtaining any goods or services is guilty of an offence.

28 Any person who coerces or exerts undue influence on another person to make or revoke a personal directive is guilty of an offence.

31 (1) The court may, on hearing an application under Section 29, do any one or more of the following:

(a) where a court is satisfied that a writing embodies the intentions of the maker, the court may, notwithstanding that the writing was not executed in compliance with the requirements of this Act, order that the writing is valid and fully effective as a personal directive as if it had been executed in compliance with the requirements of this Act;

(b) make a determination of capacity of the maker or person represented or a delegate or statutory decision-maker after considering a report made under subsection (2)(b);

(b) order that a report on the capacity of a maker or person represented or a delegate or statutory decision-maker be prepared.

(3) In making a decision under subsection (1), the court may not add to or alter the intent of an instruction contained in a personal directive unless the court is satisfied that the maker's instruction or wishes changed subsequent to the making of the instruction.
